Every island is 37.75" high to the countertop. Allow extra room around it for the grill hood, doors and walking space.

CHOOSE THE SPOT

- ☐ Pick a level, solid surface such as a concrete pad, pavers or a deck that can carry the island and appliances
- ☐ Leave room to open the grill hood, doors and drawers, and to walk around the island
- ☐ Keep the grill out from under combustible roofs and overhangs, and follow the Blaze manual for clearances
- ☐ Adjustable leveling feet take up small dips in the surface

DELIVERY DAY

- ☐ The island ships by freight as finished modules
- ☐ Clear a path from the drop off point to the patio, including gates, steps and tight corners
- ☐ Inspect every box and note any damage on the delivery receipt before you sign

What comes with the island

- Finished modules with your side finish and granite waterfall countertop
- Openings sized for the Blaze appliances, with gas venting built in
- Mounting hardware, assembly tools and adjustable leveling feet

GAS

- ☐ Choose propane or natural gas when you order
- ☐ Natural gas: have a licensed pro run a gas line to the island
- ☐ Propane: plan where the tank will sit and how it connects to the grill
- ☐ Gas venting for each appliance is already built into the island

POWER

- ☐ Have a 110V GFCI outlet within reach for grill lights, coolers and displays
- ☐ Gas and electrical hookups are not included, so book licensed pros ahead of time

ASSEMBLY

- ☐ Plan on two people, about 30 to 60 minutes plus time to unpack
- ☐ Modules bolt together at each corner and the middle seam with the included wrench and hardware
- ☐ Level the island, set the Blaze appliances in their openings, then have gas and power connected

What you provide

- A level, solid surface in the spot you choose
- A natural gas line or a propane tank, plus a licensed gas hookup
- A 110V GFCI outlet and two people for assembly day
